SURGICAL
Transformation

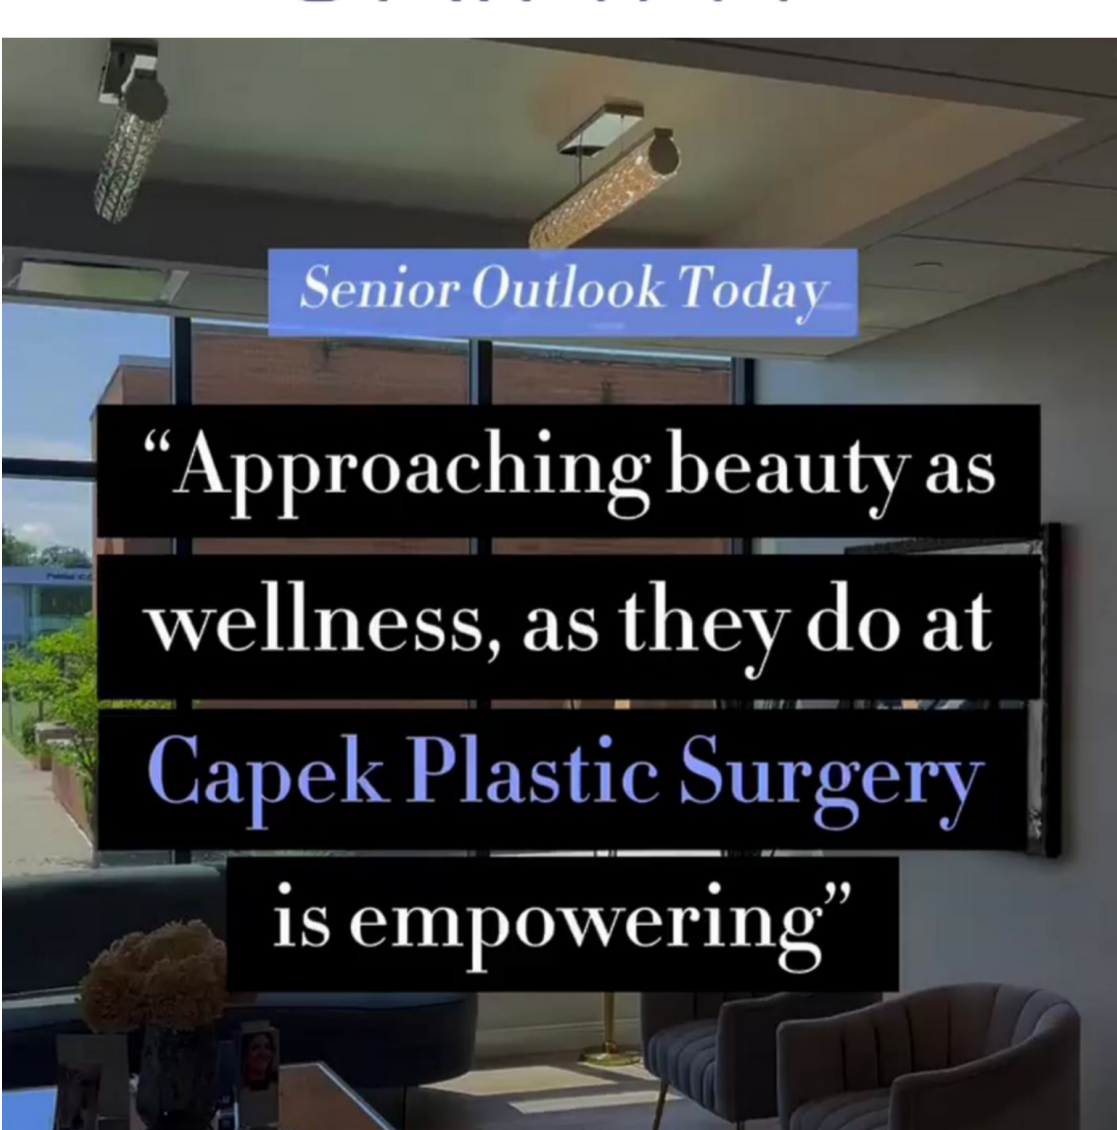

I recently performed a breast revision for my lovely patient who was ready to replace her saline implants that were over two decades old, shifted out of proper position and rippling.

Rippling is a potential side effect where folds in breast implants become visible or can be felt to the touch, causing them to feel like ripples beneath the skin.

For this revision, I replaced her old implants with gummy implants in a similar size after modifying the pocket around the implants to reposition them. I also performed a breast lift to give her breasts a perky, youthful appearance. 🍒🌟

This is a challenging procedure because of the various layers of tissue that need modification, as well as forces at play in 3 dimensions. Plastic surgery is sculpture 😊
